

Jingle Bell Horse Show

Del Mar, California
November 29 – December 2, 2007

Story and photos by Barbara Walker

Just about the time the rest of the country is folding up shop for the winter, the southern West Coast is getting geared up for one of the nicest shows of their year. Snow and ice don't enter the picture here. Sunshine and fair weather prevail for most of the fall and December is usually just like September every place else. The 7th annual Jingle Bell show broke all previous records for number of entries, nice horses and good times. This was an absolutely wonderful event at Del Mar Horsepark, just north of San Diego. Four days of daytime classes only, left evenings for lots of partying, sampling the fabulous seaside restaurants in the area, or just plain resting up for the next day.

Originally billed as a relatively new show for several years, it now has enough seasons under its belt to have developed some wonderful traditions. Thursday began with an overload of sunshine in San Diego's inimitable way. The evening was taken up with the now customary Trainers Cocktail Party, where they can run and hide from clients and have a good time doing it. Things were going along quite famously and then Friday the sky broke loose and threatened to ruin everything. Originally staged as an outdoor show, with Holiday decorations to vie any Hollywood set, it had to be moved into an adjoining covered arena to hide from the deluge. Most of the decorations followed along and a little rain was not going to ruin chairmen, Lance Bennett and Scott Hickey's parade. The large arena not only accommodated the show comfortably but left ample room for a warm up area and spectators kept dry in adjoining box seats.

The annual Holiday High Tea Party, complete with silver services and all the trappings, would have made Amy Vanderbilt nod in approval. The exhibitors were royally entertained on the delightful white tented berm next to the arena on Friday evening. One newcomer to the show and to the horse world was heard to exclaim, "they are amazingly civilized." The evening was absolutely lovely.

The Pacific Coast Horse Shows Circuit Awards were presented at a party in the tent Saturday evening. By now the rain had cleared up and the weather assumed a relatively normal attitude. A little chilly for us, about 65 degrees (you Northerners can weep uncontrollably now), but still amenable to showing horses.

Trophies were abundant here. Contests covering every conceivable subject were held: best tack room (Greg Carstens Seamair Farm), coloring; art; essay; judging; trainer appreciation, junior sportsmanship and a raffle that included a 42" Plasma HD TV.

The wonderful judge was Nancy Troutman from Salem, Va. Mary K. Hartman managed the show with her usual efficiency while husband Bil managed the paddock. Jeff Gilbert did a super job of announcing and the grand master, Rick Osteen, recorded it all exquisitely on digital camera.

The Richard K. Walker II perpetual challenge trophy for the most outstanding Junior Exhibitor showing an American Saddlebred, as chosen by the judge, was awarded to Taylor Sams this year. Taylor is from La Mesa, Calif., and is trained by Anne Speck at Rancho Del Mar.

Before we get into the show itself, it must be noted that several people deserve extra giant trophies for not only showing at Jingle Bell, but making the unbelievable effort to also promote the Saddlebred breed by riding in some of the surrounding towns' Christmas parades in full parade regalia, the same weekend of the show. This is a supreme effort as it takes many grueling hours at the crack of dawn to get these horses and riders into their parade costumes and ready to show. Scripps Miramar Ranch in San Diego, owned by Michele Macfarlane, managed three parades over the weekend. This after showing at Jingle Bell on Thursday and Friday. On Saturday, they put three of their beautiful Saddlebreds in the Vista parade. Saturday night five were in the Ocean Beach parade and Sunday, five were in the La Jolla parade. The logistics of getting this all done and showing too boggles the mind.

Kathie Dunn and her friend, Michael Ellis did three parades and the horse show in two weeks: The Hollywood Santa Parade, the La Jolla Christmas Parade and the Laguna Nigel Parade. Kudos to them all.

FIVE-GAITED

After all of that, the star attraction was none other than CCV Casey's Final Countdown, the reigning five-gaited World's Grand Champion owned and presented by Michele Macfarlane. Needless to say, he took the five-gaited open with his usual charm. Since Scripps Ranch was off at assorted parades on the weekend, he did not show back in the stake. The absolutely delightful Sky's Blue Angel, owned by Bobbie Reid and presented by David Hysaw, took the blue in the large and competitive stake and was reserve in the open. Michele's legendary lady, CH Sprinkles, many times a World Champion star in her own right, took her customary place in the winner's circle in the five-gaited amateur open and stake. A particularly pretty chestnut gelding, Royal Conduct, owned and presented by Nani Barnes, took the junior/limit five-gaited class.

THREE-GAITED

The trophy in the three-gaited open class went to the lovely Victoria Lynn, with Jim Cherry for Zazen Ranch. She did not show back. Rhythm Of The Son, with owner Priscilla Marconi, made the victory passes in the amateur three-gaited open and stake. Selby Lane repeated her many previous performances to the winners' circle in the junior exhibitor three-gaited open and stake with owner, Alyssa Blinkoff. Tara Weber, trainer.

FINE HARNESS

My Minuet, a striking five-year-old mare, won the open fine harness class with Larry Bush for Sue Crowder. She was purchased during the show by David Blevins for his client Jennifer Sandefur and transported back to their stable in Somis, Calif.

PARK/PARK PLEASURE

The flamboyant Paladin's Presidio, with Robb Wallen for Sarah Scott Hausheer, was stunning taking the large and aggressive park stake. Jim Cherry guided Brookhill's Periday to the park open win for Zazen Ranch.

It was Robb Wallen, again front and center in the winner's circle with the park pleasure grand champion, The Pacific Ambassador for Katie Richardson. Pam Polski guided The Louisville Slugger to the open park pleasure win for Kathy Kilbourne. Liz Bolton, trainer.

There were several stunning entries in the junior/limit park pleasure classes. The winners in both classes were certainly Freedom Hall worthy. Topping the championship, Bleached Out, a lovely junior mare with David Blevins for Jennifer Sandefur, took home the trophy. Another conspicuous beauty, Unchained with David Becker, Jr., for Virginia Bergstrom, was the front runner in the open class.

SHOW PLEASURE

The five-gaited show pleasure classes were hard fought with nine very nice entries. Easily rising to the top in both the open and the stake, Ron Harris guided his chestnut gelding, Count Fleet, to picture perfect victories with trainer, David Hysaw picking up the trophies.

A handsome bay gelding, Periptor's Chief Executive, took the lead in the three-gaited adult show pleasure stake with owner Carolyn Hohenberger. This pair has been making waves this past season guided by trainer, Liz Bolton. The inimitable Ina Brown with owner, Dian McNab, took home the trophy in the adult three-gaited open with trainer, Anne Speck heading up the victory pass.

The junior exhibitors were not to be outdone. Their section of the three-gaited show pleasure division showcased nine extremely nice entries. The charming grey gelding, Silversmith, owned and showcased by April Kilbourne, out did them all with perfect performances taking both the open and the stake. Liz Bolton, trainer.

Five of the six handsome entries in the show pleasure driving open and stake belonged to Scripps Miramar Ranch. Dr. Zhivago, with owner, Michele Macfarlane, rose to the top. This was truly a beautiful and colorful class.

COUNTRY PLEASURE

Callaway's Cassandra, with owner Janice Darden, was the country pleasure grand champion. David Becker, Jr., trainer. In the adult country pleasure class, the current reserve World Champion adult country pleasure horse, CH Highpoint's Abba Zabba, took home the trophy with Nicole Bigelow and Mr. Big.

Robb Wallen with Paradin's Presidio.

owner, Kendall Weber. Tara Weber, trainer. In the junior exhibitor division, Cedar Creek America First, with Shea Rusing for Bobbie Reid, was the champion and grand champion. Dave Hysaw, trainer. CF Prowler's Keepsake, with owner Amy Vicker Smith, claimed both the country pleasure driving championship and grand championship. Tara Weber, trainer. Clover Hill's Color Guard with one's steed with all the accoutrements of the class only to have to wade through the mud to get there and be rained on in the process. But show they did, and were magnificent doing it. Special congratulations to rescue horse, I'm W.O. Bentley and his owner, Kathie Dunn, who proved that throwing away any horse is very sad, despicable a terrible waste. The beautiful gelding made the Saddlebred breed proud to own him. The championship and grand championship belonged to him.

PONIES

Forever And A Day, with owner Julie DeVault, was the grand champion in the pleasure driving stake. Greg Carstens, trainer. Heartland King Of Kings, with owner Joanne Weiner, took the qualifying open class with trainer Bill Tomin picking up the trophy.

The flashy Seamair's Dear Admiral, with Lance Bennett for Scott Hickey, was the harness pony champion.

DF Tres Chic, with owner Kendall Weber, took home three blues. The road pony under saddle open and stake, and the roadster pony to bike championship. Tara Weber, trainer. Patti DeVault guided Seamair's Awesome Dancer to the blue in the open road pony class. Greg Carstens, trainer.

OPEN CLASSES

The open pleasure classes are often more competitive than the ASB pleasure classes, since they can include both trainers and amateurs.

Leading the English open pleasure championship, with a good reserve in the qualifying class, Zinfandel & Ice, with owner, April Kilbourne topped the nine entries with trainer, Liz Bolton, heading the victory passes. Mountainview's Crown Prince with Beth Piper for Toni and Tom Nickell took the open class. Anne Speck, trainer.

FRIESIANS

Friesian Focus, Lance Bennett trainer, took home a large share of the silver: Foppe Fan E Lange Ekers with owner Joan Fernandez was a star in the Friesian walk/trot pleasure open and stake. The handsome National Champion Wodan was the saddle seat pleasure open and stake champion with Lance in the irons.

A magnificent Friesian, a current National Friesian Champion, Jolmer Fan Tusken De Dobben, owned by Robin and Steve Young, took home three blues. Jolmer's usual exhibitor is daughter Cassandra Young-Sepia. But while she is busy having a baby and kibitzing from the sidelines, daddy took his first crack at driving in ten years and proved he's still got what it takes. He topped the open pleasure driving class and championship with a glorious slat sided back to back village cart. Then Jolmer returned to the ring with dressage trainer Tom Sofra on the lines in the Friesian pleasure driving working single open and championship with blues in both.

Trainer, Rachael Stokes was collecting blues all week: Meine Van De Ridderdijk, owned by Dr. Lyn Stadish and trained by Rachael, returned home with four trophies in the Friesian saddle seat park open and championship, the amateur saddle seat pleasure with Rachael and the amateur saddle seat pleasure class with catch rider, Kathie Dunn. Keimpe Van Rignwoude was the amateur saddle seat pleasure grand champion with owner Koreen Greenberg. Oebele RV with Rachael for Dr. Stadish took the country English pleasure saddle seat stake. Lauren Cingnano guided the black beauty to the win in the open class. Kathie Dunn, never having ridden Oebele before, took him in the amateur walk/trot pleasure open and stake and left with blues in both classes.

EQUITATION

It's interesting to watch the younger equitation riders on the rail with their mouths literally gaping open at the incredible grace Jacqueline Beck portrays when she is in the ring. They wonder if they will ever, in a million years, become that polished, poised and elegant. It's rare that any equitation rider reaches her level of refinement. Many come close, but very few over the years reach that pinnacle of success that combines both beauty and complete control of horse. The current reigning sixteen-year-old World Champion was an absolute joy to watch, as she glided seemingly effortlessly around the arena easily conquering the 14 to 17 class and the stake. Jacqueline is guided by Anne Speck and Cindy Boel.

A precious relatively new face on the block is tiny Claire Brownie. She did a beautiful job claiming the 13 and under class. Claire is also trained by Anne Speck.

Alyssa Blinkoff was back in the winner's circle collecting the trophy for a very nice performance in the UPHA Challenge Cup class. Tara Weber is her trainer.

Savanna Miller, daughter of trainers, Frank and Anne Miller, was both the 10 and under walk and trot equitation champion and grand champion.

Not many realize that one of our local adult exhibitors was one of Helen Crabtree's stars. After 36 years of not riding in equitation classes, Amy Barmeier Dru bit the bullet this year and decided she had missed it all long enough. Now, Amy has been a multi-champion adult exhibitor in the performance classes on the West Coast for many, many years. With months of grueling work with her trainers Matt Roberts and Marcia Everett, she got all the pieces in order and proved that one doesn't have to be a junior exhibitor to excel in equitation. Amy had a mission: to prove that riding equitation is not just something Helen dreamed up one night to make a pretty rider and everyone followed her lead. It is riding properly with balance and control. That it is beautiful to watch is a side order, a by product of the above. It's unfortunate that many don't know this and ridicule equitation. It is simply lack of knowledge on their part. One needs to learn to control and balance their own body before they can control the horse. Well, Amy proved it could be done after all those years and she walked away with the championship and grand championship in the adult equitation classes. And you know what? In the process she enforced something she already knew would happen: how much her brushing up in equitation improved her already top riding skills. She's one happy camper! Congratulations!

Rain or sunshine, Jingle Bell was a great success. We hope that the West will continue to support this wonderful show.
